

Isolation of lipid droplets and chloroplasts from algae and plants

I will keep very good memories of my STSM in Grenoble (France). It has been an exceptional experience, which has enriched me professionally and personally. Several factors contributed to the success of my stay: the host's care in organizing the work prior to my arrival, as well as the wonderful team that welcomed me. Scientific and non-scientific conversations have contributed to a very interesting and welcoming internship. I must also highlight the beauty of the mountains involving the city.

The knowledge acquired during the STSM will help me during my research, but non-scientific aspect of this experience are immeasurable.
